GEORGETOWN PROFESSOR TO SPEAK ON 'THE ETHICS OF DENIABILITY'

MISSOULA--

A distinguished professor and author will address a Missoula audience next week in The University of Montana School of Law's 16th Blankenbaker Lecture on Professional Responsibility.

David Luban, Frederick Haas Professor of Law and Philosophy at Georgetown University Law Center, will present "Contrived Ignorance: The Ethics of Deniability" from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 14. The free public lecture will take place in the Law Building's Castles Center. A reception will follow in the Jameson Law Library.

Luban has taught law at Harvard and Yale universities and the University of Maryland, and has taught philosophy at Dartmouth College, Kent State and Yale universities and the University of Melbourne.

He has written or edited five books, including "Lawyers and Justice: An Ethical Study," "The Good Lawyer: Lawyers' Roles and Lawyers' Ethics" and a casebook, "Legal Ethics."

Luban is a former chair of the American Association of Law School Section on Professional Responsibility. He is the recipient of numerous grants and awards, including the Guggenheim and Woodrow Wilson fellowships, the New York State Bar's Sanford D. Levy Professional Ethics Award, and the American Bar Foundation's Keck Award for Distinguished Scholarship on Legal Ethics and Professional Responsibility.

The Blankenbaker Lecture on Professional Responsibility began in 1978 with an annual endowment to UM's School of Law from the Blankenbaker Foundation. The foundation, established in 1975 by the then-90-year-old Joseph N. Blankenbaker, was intended to express his thanks to the people of Montana for treating him so well. Blankenbaker, born in Virginia in 1885, moved to Montana at age 24 and began a fruitful career in banking.

The endowment to the lecture series that carries on Blankenbaker's name is intended to increase leadership, competence and professional responsibility in the Montana legal profession.

The lecture has been approved for 1.0 Continuing Legal Education credit by the Montana Board of Continuing Legal Education.
